As hospitals across Kansas face ongoing workforce shortages, many are exploring opportunities to employ international health care professionals. Yet the immigration process can be complex, highly regulated and easy to overlook until an urgent need arises.

Join the Kansas Hospital Association for a Noon Briefing on Wednesday, Nov. 19, where Don Berner from Foulston Siefkin LLP will provide an overview designed to help hospital leaders understand the fundamentals of immigration visas in health care settings. The session will address key visa types, common employer pitfalls, and steps to take before engaging in recruitment or sponsorship. Participants will gain a practical understanding of what questions to ask, when to seek legal guidance and how to prepare their organization to navigate these requirements with confidence.

Berner has more than 25 years of experience advising employers on a wide range of employment, labor and immigration matters. He represents organizations from small businesses to Fortune 500 companies, providing practical, tailored solutions on workplace compliance, union relations and employee management. Berner also regularly conducts training for employers and management teams on employment law and best practices.
